What FERC Scrutiny Of Directors, Assets Means For Investors

Day Pitney's Energy Counsel Heather Feingold and Energy Partner Mark Williams recently co-authored an article for Law360 titled, "What FERC Scrutiny Of Directors, Assets Means For Investors."

The article explores the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's (FERC) intensified scrutiny of investor-appointed directors and vertical market power in corporate and asset transactions, examining how recent regulatory changes impact mergers, acquisitions, and power sales approvals in the energy industry.
