Overview

Ann Hetherwick "Hether" Cahill serves as Co-Chair of the Firm's Fiduciary and Probate Litigation Practice Group, a group that was named "Litigation Department of the Year – Probate" in the 2025 New England Legal Awards. She represents beneficiaries and fiduciaries in fiduciary, probate, and trust disputes. Hether advises clients at every stage of litigation, sometimes avoiding litigation entirely or resolving issues through mediation. As a former law clerk of the Massachusetts Appeals Court, she brings her strong writing skills and knowledge of the appellate process to contested matters, trials, and appeals. Above all, Hether appreciates that clients are often going through a difficult time of their lives and their legal and emotional needs are unique. One 2025 Chambers High Net Worth interviewee commented that "[s]he has been supportive, understanding, knowledgeable and straightforward with her approach."

Hether handles wide-ranging probate and trust disputes, including:

- trustee removal actions, defense and prosecution;
- will contests and trust invalidity actions involving undue influence, lack of capacity, and/or formation issues;
- trust modification, termination, reformation, cy pres, and/or interpretation actions;
- accounting actions;
- tortious interference with inheritance actions;
- omitted spouse or child actions, including DNA and exhumation issues;
- equity actions involving real estate;
- complaints for instructions and/or declaratory judgment actions;
- divorce, including issues whether a trust is divisible as a marital asset;
- conservatorships, including expanded authority to perform estate planning; and
- guardianships and financial exploitation.

Hether is actively involved in the community and legal industry, including speaking regularly at conferences and on panels and co-authoring the chapter "Cy Pres and Deviation" in MCLE's book Fiduciary Litigation in the Probate Court. She is currently completing her third year as the Editor-in-Chief of the Massachusetts Law Review. Hether is also a Fellow of the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel (ACTEC).
