Chambers Global 2025 Ranks Day Pitney's Energy Practice Group and Attorneys

Day Pitney LLP is pleased to announce that its Energy practice has once again been ranked in Chambers Global Legal Guide 2025 by Chambers & Partners, marking the sixth consecutive year of recognition from the publication. The firm's ranking reflects its continued excellence in energy regulatory and litigation matters, as well as its expanding team of highly regarded practitioners.

In addition to the firm's ranking, several Day Pitney attorneys have been individually recognized for their contributions to the industry, including Margaret Czepiel, Joseph H. Fagan, Heather L. Feingold, Sebastian Lombardi, Evan Reese, Mark Williams, and David Doot, all of whom were recognized in the U.S. Energy: Electricity (Regulatory & Litigation) category. Valerie Green and Fagan were also recognized in the U.S. Energy: Oil & Gas (Regulatory & Litigation) category. The rankings reflect the firm's continued strength and strategic growth in this area, with the number of recognized Energy attorneys increasing from five to eight.

"Our continued recognition in Chambers Global is a testament to the strength and depth of our Energy team," said Joseph H. Fagan, Energy Partner and Managing Partner of the firm's D.C. office. "We take pride in providing sophisticated counsel on complex regulatory and energy transaction and litigation matters, and it is gratifying to see the experience and expansion of our team acknowledged in the market. We look forward to continuing to help our clients navigate the evolving energy landscape."

According to Chambers Global, "Day Pitney LLP is well-regarded in the power space, with particular expertise in regulatory and FERC matters, frequently representing clients at both state and federal level. The firm offers significant knowledge of market rules, transmission and interconnection issues. It also demonstrates growing capability in FERC natural gas matters where its practitioners represent shippers such as large industrials and municipalities in contested rate proceedings."

Day Pitney's Energy Practice represents a diverse group of clients across the nation and worldwide to help develop and implement innovative solutions to the complex challenges confronting the energy and utility industries. Clients include infrastructure developers, electric, gas, and water utilities; debt and equity investors; generators, transmitters, and marketers; equipment contractors; and other energy and utility market participants.
